Final Rejection

This Office Action is being resent to the Applicant because the Final Rejection dated 02/27/2007 did not refer to the appropriate cited reference.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-10, 15-17 and 20 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Krzyzanowski (US 3,276,622) in view of Leopoldi (US 4,071,165).

Referring to claim 1. Krzyzanowski discloses an article dispenser (Figure 1-4) comprising a container (10) for holding a least one movable article (36), a cover (17) connected to the container (10), an extension (18) connected to a lever and extending into a container (10; Figure 2), a tip of the extension for engaging the at least one article (36) within the container (10), whereby moving the cover (17) moves the tip of the extension (the contacting tip of member 18) in the container (10) and slides the tip of the extension (the contacting tip of member 18) outward from the container (10; see Figure 1-4).

Art Unit: 3654

Krzyzanowski does not disclose the article within in the dispenser container as being strips and further does not specifically disclose the tip of the extension having a friction surface.

Leopoldi disclose a dispenser container (10) comprising a stack of paper (12) strips wherein the engaging extension (22) further comprises a high friction coating (29) to engage and slidably move the topmost paper strip from the stack.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the dispenser of Krzyzanowski to include the articles contained in the dispenser to be paper strips and further include a friction surface at the tip of the extension as taught by Leopoldi because the dispenser apparatus could be used to dispense a wide array of article and the high friction surface would provide a better friction contact between the tip of the extension and the top most strip in the stack.

Regarding claim 2. Krzyzanowski discloses an article dispenser (Figure 1-4) wherein the cover (17) is the lever and is pivoted on a hinge (27 and 27a) connected to the container (10)

Regarding claim 3. Krzyzanowski discloses an article dispenser (Figure 1-4) wherein the extension (18) extends in a direction (toward the rear of the container) from the hinge (27 and 27a) opposite a direction (toward the front of the container) of the lever (17).

Regarding claims 4 and 7. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the dispenser of Krzyzanowski in view of Leopoldi such that the friction surface is disposed at the bottom side of the member (18; inside portion of the tip at 18) because manufacturing the dispenser would be easier and more cost effective.

Regarding claims 5,6 and 8-10. See rejections above. Krzyzanowski discloses an article dispenser (Figure 1-4) further comprising a dispensing opening (front of the dispenser) at one end of the container and a closure (21) connected to a lever (17) for moving with the lever (17) and closing the opening when the lever (17) is aligned away from the container (10).

Referring to claims 15-17 and 20. See above. Although Krzyzanowski in view of Leopoldi do not explicitly disclose a method of using their apparatus, the method steps recited in the claims would inherently be performed when using the apparatus of Krzyzanowski in view of Leopoldi in their usual and expected fashion.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 1-10,15-17 and 20 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. See rejection above.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
